SEARCH ANNOUNCEMENT

Editor Search Announcement
The American Journal of Clinical Nutrition

The American Society for Nutrition (ASN) announces the search for Editor-in-Chief of The American Journal of Clinical Nutrition (AJCN), an interdisciplinary, peer-reviewed journal that publishes meritorious work in basic and clinical studies relevant to human nutrition. The AJCN is the leading journal in clinical nutrition worldwide, having the highest impact factor among peer-reviewed research journals in the nutrition and dietetics category and subscribers on six continents. The five-year appointment of the new Editor will begin in July 2017.

Applicants should have achieved a high level of visibility in clinical nutrition research and practice and have demonstrated strong leadership skills. In addition, it is important to have a broad perspective of the field of human nutrition and be astute to emerging areas of research. Previous editorial experience and the ability to articulate a clear vision for AJCN are key elements upon which applicants will be evaluated.

Nominations and self-nominations should be received as a letter of intent by May 1, 2016 and include a cover letter describing the candidate’s qualifications for the position along with a curriculum vitae. After review of the nominations, the top candidates will be asked to provide additional information on their qualifications and vision for the journal to complete their application. The deadline for receipt of the full application is June 20, 2016. Finalists will be interviewed by the Editor Search Committee in September or October of 2016.

All letters of intent/nominations should be addressed to the Committee Chair, Dr. Sharon Donovan, and submitted electronically to the ASN Senior Director of Journal Editorial and Production Operations, Darren Early (dtearly@nutrition.org).
